

WE NOMINATE

Seven able, long-working Princetonians, ranging in years from 33 to 63, who have been singled out for the highest awards Princeton University can bestow upon faculty members, McCosh Faculty Fellowships, established last winter in memory of the 11th president of the College of New Jersey. During the next academic year this septet — Milton Byron Babbitt, David Robbins Coffin, John Van Antwerp Fine, Eric Frederick Goldman, Alpheus Thomas Mason, Richard Emeric Quandt and George Finger Thomas — will be given additional opportunities to carry forward in the humanities and social sciences individualized research programs of marked promise.

These newly created Fellowships, linking the Princeton of today with the exhilarating 1870's and 1880's when James McCosh was furnishing the leadership and intellectual stimulation that lifted a sleepy, sectarian College into an era of expanding influence, reflect education's concern for the problems confronting the world in the fields of human values and human relations. In a very real sense, by providing paid one-term leaves for scholarship and drawing accounts for research-related expenses, they help redress the imbalance between the humanities and the social sciences and the plethora of such opportunities existing in science and engineering.

The two "senior" McCosh Fellows, Mason and Thomas, both 63, will devote their leaves to completing major works. The former, successor to Woodrow Wilson and Edward Samuel Corwin as McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence and the best-selling biographer of Supreme Court Justices, hopes to "wind up" his definitive study of the office and powers of the Chief Justice of the United States. The Texas-born Thomas, a Princetonian since 1910 and Pyne Professor of Religion, who laid the foundations for the University's Department of Religion, will be polishing for publication the draft of a long-contemplated and eagerly awaited volume, "The Philosophical Approach to Religion."

Widely separated periods in the history of the Mediterranean Basin, the so-called "Cradle of Western Civilization," will constitute the focus for both Coffin, 41-year old Professor of Art and Archaeology, and the 59-year old Fine, a native of Princeton and the sixth distinguished classicist to hold the Ewing Professorship, a chair founded during the presidency of McCosh. Where Coffin will be concentrating on the relationship between the intellectual life of the Renaissance and the architecture exemplified by the 16th Century villas of Rome and Latium, Fine will be developing studies of social organization and social change in the world of the ancient Greeks.

The 47-year old Goldman, one of this country's most gifted historians, will be entering upon a projected eight-year study leading to a history of the United States from the 1860's to 1960, that is tentatively titled "The Maturing of American Civilization." Babbitt, 36, brilliant composer and a major contributor to the development of electronic music, will use his leave to bring to fruition an investigation he launched 20 years ago, "The Structure of the 12-Tone System." The youthful Quandt, born in Budapest, Hungary, 33 years ago, is a specialist in economic theory and mathematical economics whose plans for the year ahead include the completion of a monograph, "Stability Analysis in Economic Models."

For meriting the recognition that has been extended to them by a committee of their peers; for undertaking projects which will enrich, and strengthen, their areas of specialization; for their devotion to the mission of universities — "the advancement of knowledge and the progress of societies"; they are TOWN TOPICS' nominees as

A PLACE TO STUDY
 For Everybody. "The boy said this sure beats home," his boy said with a grin, as he ran two-at-a-time down the stairs of Dorothea House, his homework all done and tucked into his books he carried under his arm.

He's a junior at Princeton High, a nice kid, doing pretty well in school, but plagued at home by younger brothers and sisters who don't have all that homework to do, and who spend their evenings in noisy rough-house or even noisier TV.

The new Study Center at Dorothea House, corner of John Street and Avalon Place, was started with boys—and girls—like this in mind.

Here, on Monday, Tuesday,

LET'S LOOK IT UP: Books and a quiet place and a helping hand are available for all in the new Study Center in Dorothea House.

Benjamin Shinneg and Mark Heald, two of the prime movers in the new project, are shown here with a case of reference books donated by various Princeton residents. There are just as many books in shelves on the opposite side of the case. Story, this page. (Staff Photo)

Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9:30, a boy or girl in any grade from six through 12, can study without distraction.

There are tables and lamps, chairs and books. Four adult supervisors, including always one woman and one University undergraduate, move quietly about or sit in low conversation beyond the most hopeful dreams of its founders. Like "YES," the Youth Employment Service, it is an example of warm cooperation between the young people of the Princeton community and adults who want to give them every chance.

"I'm Going Again." The first night, Monday, February 4, there were 11 boys and girls. Of the 11 who came that first Monday, five came back each night for the rest of the week. The next two nights, there were 15. On Thursday there were 31. There have been as many as 40.

Although help is available from the supervisors, most students who come work quietly on their own. Center volunteers refer to the help they can offer as "superficial."

This means that for the present, there is no tutoring help at the Study Center. The supervisor will give the kind of help a parent would give at home, if the parent had enough background. In Algebra, most parents will be relieved to learn, is a problem in many families. The night after the Center opened, one of the volunteers spent an evening showing a bewildered youngster how to factor.

A few days ago, a mother called a Study Center volunteer to say that her husband was going around the world on a two-month business trip, leaving her in charge of alege grammars and dictionaries and a thesaurus.

 There is also a college handbook, for a unique reason. One girl saw it on the shelf and began to pore over it, looking at descriptions and requirements of various colleges.
 "May I take this home?" she asked the supervisor. "I want to show it to my father."
 The study supervisor who lent the handbook says that this girl had probably never thought seriously of college before she saw the book.

Before long, the Center hopes to set up a tutoring program. In fact, the formal name is still being decided.

of the organization is the Study Center and Tutoring Program. When it is instituted, this program will be, not remedial, but supplemental to school course work. It will be done on a vis-a-vis basis, between tutor and student, and will be "held" in any place the tutor and his charge decide to meet.
The entire program, from its inception, has had the enthusiastic support of Borough and Township school officials, from superintendents Chester A. Stroup and John McKenna right down the line.

Germination. The Study idea grew from discussion among members of the Unitarian Church Social Concerns Group and the Inter-group Relations Committee of the Council of Community Services. Mrs. Benjamin Shimberg is coordinator of the project. Mrs. Frederick Stohman is chairman of the tutoring service, assisted by Ronald Glick University undergraduate. Others members of the core group include Mrs. Rowan Boone, the Rev. Benjamin J.

"We're going to have to expand physically," Mrs. Shimberg says. "The room we have may not be big enough before long. And we've got a lot of good reference works, but there are some other things we need. We'd love to have an Encyclopaedia Britannica, for instance. We need a big cabinet with a lock and key, big enough for a large first-aid kit and our record books. And table lamps, a blackboard and a big electric clock. But we won't turn anything away!"

TIRED OF WAITING FOR HOT WATER??

Health authorities tell us modern living requires about 3000 gallons of hot water per month—about 100 gallons per day. Equipment men tell us a standard 30-gallon oil-fired water heater will supply 100 gallons of hot water in one hour's operation, an less than one gallon of fuel oil. Other type heaters may require up to four hours' operation, or longer.

76 COMPLAINTS FILED
In Johnson case. A final accounting has shown that a total of 76 complaints has been filed at Borough Court in connection with the divorce, said on the Johnson home at 16 Cleveland Lane on February 8.

Complainants include Mrs. J. Edward Johnson Jr., her housekeeper, Walter Bannard and Iving Potts, two members of the raiding party, and the New Jersey SPCA. Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams has not yet set a date for resumption of a preliminary hearing adjourned the week before last.

At the time of the original hearing the only complaint was that of atrocious assault and battery registered by the police against Mrs. Johnson. Magistrate Tams adjourned the hearing to permit the other charges to be processed.

Harvey Blount, the private detective whom Mrs. Johnson is accused of shooting five times, is in satisfactory condition in Princeton Hospital after being removed from the critical list for a third time. Mrs. Johnson has accused Blount with having invaded her home and trying to drag her from bed.

Eight conspiracy charges against all members of the raiding party and Mr. Johnson are among the 16 complaints signed by Mrs. Johnson. The others are an assault and battery charge against Blount and seven breaking and entering charges against all members of the raiding party with the exception of Johnson.

Mr. Potts and Mr. Bannard have filed 24 identical charges. They include eight conspiracy charges, eight assault and battery and eight assault with deadly weapons against all members of the raiding party.

Harry Parcell, owner of the detective agency who conducted the raid, and investigator Joseph Peluso, a member of the raiding party, each have charged Mr. Bannard with assault with intent to kill.

Eight conspiracy charges have been filed by the SPCA against the raiding party and one complaint of cruelty to animals against Mr. Parcell. The organization charges that Mrs. Johnson's bulldog, Ebenezer, was subdued with an ammonia-loaded pistol.

TOPICS Of the Town

POLITICAL PUZZLE

Some Pieces Missing. Each year as winter inches its way along the ice-slick highway that eventually leads to spring, Princeton's two political parties are busily engaged in putting together the requisite number of candidacies which will eventually be known as a slate. In a community where the burden on volunteer public servants was none too light a decade ago, and has been increasing for all to see in the intervening years, the task of persuasion is rarely easy.

This week both Republicans (currently the "haves,") and Democrats (after a few years of two-party government, once again the "have-nots") were busy telephoning, conferring and, inevitably, persuading. They had until 4 p.m. on Thursday, March 7, to file the necessary petitions. Primary Day will be Tuesday, April 16.

Fairman to Retire. After helping to guide burgeoning Princeton Township through the six most formative years of its 122-year history, Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman has decided not to seek a third term. Asked by TOWN TOPICS if he would confirm the belief that his current year in office will be his last, he replied, "You read the tea leaves correctly."

Republican hopes of maintaining the monopoly which the party has enjoyed in the Township since Democrat William W. Marvel's term expired in 1961 will be the most difficult to achieve because both GOP incumbents will not seek reelection. Committeeman Maurice F. Healy, Jr., this week joined Mayor Fairman with an "absolutely not" comment. He added, "It's been fun, but no."

Neither party was ready to announce the pair of candidates it would name to fill the vacancies.

In the Borough . . . Mayor Henry S. Patterson, who was cited in some quarters earlier this winter as having no plans to seek a second term, told TOWN TOPICS this week that "I am giving it very serious consideration." One estimate of his intentions is that the vitriolic Letters to the Editor, written by John Hite and attacking his qualifications as mayor and his moral integrity, had a part in determining the probability that he will run again.

Mayor Patterson spoke hopefully of having Councilmen Ellwood W. Godfrey and Ralph D. Hult on the November GOP slate. Dr. Godfrey, remarking that "there is no twilight zone—if you agree to serve, the hours are extreme"—commented on the steadily-increasing work-load during his three years. Expectations are, nonetheless, that he will be a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Hult, on Council since January 1 to finish the unexpired term of Prof. Albert D. Austen, expressed full-fledged doubt that he would run for a three-year term of his own. "I accepted the appointment for a year with the understanding that I would not be expected to be a candidate this fall," he declared.

The Democrats . . . Reports were current this week that if Mayor Patterson casts an af-

Democratic Club President Robert W. van de Velde had no comment either, save to remark that the club does not make candidacies known piecemeal. "We'll report the full slate when it's ready," was his reply to the possibility of Mr. Morgan's re-entry into political orbit.

Another former mayor, Raymond F. Male, revealed that his status in the sometimes stormy world of politics may be altered as of March 8—one day after the deadline for filing primary petitions. The U. S. Civil Service Commission is expected to hand down its verdict then on charges that he violated the Hatch Act by campaigning for Gov. Hughes while serving as Mayor of Princeton.

As for the upcoming race to determine who will be the Borough's next mayor, State Labor Commissioner Male had a hat tip to throw in the ring. "I think Jack McCarthy (the former Borough attorney) would make a good mayor."

FOOD POISONING HITS

Five Hospitalized. The school principal, two teachers and two pupils of the West Windsor Elementary School in Dutch Neck were admitted to Princeton Hospital Tuesday night suffering from food poisoning as a result of the noonday meal. At first, turkey they had eaten was listed as the cause but later Superintendent Frank Walton said that everything on the menu would be tested for bacteriological content.

Admitted to the hospital were Sheldon Moore, 39, RD 1, Pennington, the school principal; Miss Ida Engeke, 70, 207 Washington Road, West Windsor, a teacher; Robert Brown, 23, another teacher; Walter Dimitrak, 10; and Janice Farris, 8, all of whom live on Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction.

All were ill at their stomachs in varying degrees, but none was listed as being in serious condition. About 100 others who had eaten lunch at the school were affected in varying degrees. At Helene Fuld Hospital, Trenton, David and Douglas Everett, 8-year-old twins of Robbinsville, were treated and released.

David Blake, Princeton Borough Health Officer who serves West Windsor in the same capacity, has collected samples of all the food served at lunch Tuesday. They were being tested at Princeton Hospital and also by the State Health Department in Trenton.

PATTERSON COMMENTS

On Request to Resign. Needless to say, I do not intend to resign," said Mayor Henry Patterson as his Tuesday press conference.

The mayor had been asked to comment on a letter in last week's TOWN TOPICS written by John Hite in which Mr. Hite asked the mayor to leave office. He charged conduct of interest in the Princeton Water Company purchase and said there had been "questionable behavior" between Dr. Robert Goheen, president of the University, and Mr. Patterson in regard to zoning matters.

"Irresponsible statements of this type are not worthy of response," Mr. Patterson said. "The charge that Dr. Goheen and I are in collusion is ridiculous. I am not on the Borough Zoning Board. I certainly can't tell them what to do."

Mr. Patterson added that he felt the conflict of interest problem had been explored in full before and need not be explored again.

One Step Nearer Spring

March comes bounding

Down the hill,

(Does he bring

A daffodil?)

— FLORA

If the daffodils have heard anything about the weather in these parts, they may tell March to go along without them.

It was a cool two below last Friday in outlying sectors of Mercer County, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association's official temperature-taker breaking down at that point from the cold. It warmed up a touch (all the way to 37 on Sunday) but early morning readings Tuesday and Wednesday were again closer to zero than freezing.

Colder than normal for the first few days of March, the Man says. And maybe by the weekend, a touch of snow.

(Other comments on Mr. Hite's letter will be found in "Mailbox," page 14)

PEARSON RE-ELECTED

To Board Presidency. Richard Pearson was re-elected president of the Township Board of Education at the reorganization meeting held Thursday in Community Park School. A. Robert Trudel was re-elected vice-president.

Sixteen more school children have moved into the Township, Dr. John B. McKenna announced in his superintendent's report. Ten of them are elementary age and six are in Princeton High School. This brings to 421 the number of new pupils enrolled since October 1, Dr. McKenna said. There are now 2,334 boys and girls under the Township's system, of whom 593 are in Princeton High.

The winter break—a week's vacation ending with Washington's Birthday—was of "major value" this year to the schools, Dr. McKenna reported. The illness curve was reaching its peak for both students and faculty at the time the vacation began.

The Board will hold a public hearing on proposed additions to Riverside and Littlebrook Schools on April 16. Voting on the bond issue will be April 23.

Next Thursday, members of the Board will gather for a public meeting on the mathematics program now followed in Township schools. The meeting will be held in the library of Community Park School at 8:15 p.m.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

For Reckless Driving. Two Princeton motorists were fined Monday and had their licenses revoked for reckless driving. Mrs. Margaret Kerney, 44, 142 Dodge Road, was fined $35 and had her license revoked 90 days. Isaac T. Love, 20, 16 Witherspoon Lane, was fined $27 and had his license revoked for six months by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. Both pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Kerney's troubles started the evening of February 18 when she backed her car from its parked position on University Place. Police report that Mrs. Kerney struck the left rear fender of a parked car belonging to Jerry W. Johnston of 76 Valley Road. She then proceeded across College Road, jumped the curb, hit one parking meter, broke it off its base, and struck a second meter, bending its stanchion.

Mr. Love's automotive down-fall took place the evening of February 16 when Township Patrolmen Anthony Pine III and Antonio Diarofli spotted him driving the wrong way up the Township portion of John Street at an excessive rate of speed. Mr. Love, in turn, realizing he had been seen by the patrol car, turned off his lights and sped on.

News Of The THEATRES

WE OPEN WITH MOLIERE

At McCarter, The culture-hungry bourgeois who seeks, not culture for its own sake, but culture for what it can do for him in society, is the first subject on view in McCarter Theater's winter-spring drama series, "Ladders of Ambition," and of course the subject is Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme."
 The production, directed by Don Driver, opened in McCarter Theater Thursday night. It will play three more student matinees and one more evening performance, on Friday, March 29 at 8:30.

Moliere, in his familiar play, shows us a middle-aged merchant named M Jourdain who pursues the study of music, the dance, philosophy and fencing, all in a determined effort to raise himself above his very modest intellectual and social station and to be a Gentleman.
 Times haven't changed much since 1700 so far as the M. Jourdain are concerned. Today's parvenus take courses in art appreciation, foreign languages and they pay court to whatever groups pass for aristocracy in today's society, just as M. Jourdain favored before the nobles of his time.

Moliere Turns Staple. So Moliere's satire has much blood in its veins today as it always has had fortunately, the satire is largely lost in this McCarter production. What we see here is not Moliere but a 17th century production of The Three Stooges, a slapstick farce minus only the custard pie.
 Dom De Luise's M. Jourdain is a cross between Bob Hope and Phil Silvers, harassed rather pitiable defiant from time to time, and pathetically eager to be somebody. The rest of the cast is adequate, but not particularly memorable, and all are plagued by the requirements laid upon them to exaggerate.

Mr. Driver has unquestionably staged the play as a farce to keep it moving for a pace-mimic 20th century audience, but he tries too hard. With every bit of business—and how many hundreds of bits there are!—he seems to be pushing, striving, for laughs, laughs, laughs.
 He brings on a troupe of pink gazed belly dancers. He puts his three lackeys through a fantastic series of prat-falls and country-bumpkin antics. He directs everything through a magnifying glass so that each gesture is enlarged a dozen times, all in the interests, apparently, of good old boffala.

Words Abound, "Gentilhomme" is, of course, a very, very wordy play. A long romandante on philosophy from the Philosopher Master is probably pretty funny to the Ph. D. candidates from the philosophy department and mildly amusing to a literate audience generally, but read off on stage, even at the whippet pace set by Mr. Driver, it takes up a lot of time.

THE GENTLEMAN HIMSELF: Dom De Luise portrays Moliere's bourgeois gentleman in the satire that served as an opener for the McCarter Theatre winter-spring drama series. The suit is bright orange, the wig—indeterminate.

Of course, the McCarter production staff is really trapped by a play like this. On one hand, the producer and director satisfy their basic assignment which is to present for undergraduates as broad and wide a variety of theatrical experience as possible and on the other hand, they must make good, entertaining, enriching theatre for people whose interests are not academic.

How to hold the interests of the second group while providing food for the first? It's a problem, all right, but it can be solved.

The basic fault is not Moliere, as anyone can testify who saw the brilliant "Scapin" done two years ago for McCarter. That one lifted the audience, punch out of its seats. This one leaves them sitting there, punch-drunk from all the heavy-footed attempts at humor and wandering, possibly, whatever happened to Moliere?

CAESAR TONIGHT
 Second For McCarter, "Julius Caesar," second in the "Ladders of Ambition" series at McCarter Theatre, will open for adult audiences this Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

By the time Shakespeare's play comes to the end of its run in March, it will have been given 42 times by the resident professional company.

Most of the presentations have been for student matinees, and McCarter officials estimate that almost 35,000 boys and girls from all over New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York state will have seen "Julius Caesar." This is a record number for a McCarter production.

Young audiences have been cooperative and responsive, for the most part, McCarter spokesmen say, although an occasional exuberant young man will make an airplane out of his program and sail it into the Forum.

Mrs. Herbert McKean, theatrical manager, said the production is being presented on Page 6.

"You like it?" one asked. "Cool," said the other. "How about you?"

"Not too bad," was the reply. From a tough city character, in comment on Shakespeare, that's high praise.

"GALILEO" TO OPEN

In McCarter Repertory. The exciting and controversial German dramatist, Bertold Brecht, will be represented on the McCarter stage when "Galileo" opens next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. as the third offering in the "Ladders of Ambition" series.

In modern, ironic terms, "Galileo" retells the story of the 17th century Florentine scientist who was brain-washed by the Inquisition for his dangerous notion that the earth was not the center of the universe.

The McCarter production is only the second professional mounting of the Brecht work in this country, the first being a presentation starring Charles Laughton. For Princeton, Stephen Porter will direct and Laurence Luckinbill will play the title role.

Well-known to theatre-goers for "Threepenny Opera," an off-Broadway hit which had an exceptionally long life, Bertold Brecht is currently represented in New York by two simultaneous productions of the same play; his sardonic parable, "A Man's A Man." Last year's "Brecht on Brecht" displayed excerpts from his plays, poems, songs and diaries for New York audiences.

"GYPSY"

For Sprine Production. That doughty organization, the P. J. & B. Players, will present a spectacular version of "Gypsy" on May 2, 3, 4 and 5 as their contribution to the cultural unity of the Princeton community.

Milton Lyon will direct the musical which, as everyone knows, a well-documented ac-

"WINNIE GET THE HONEY BY BALLOON." Pooh and Piglet and all the rest will come out of the A. A. Milne stories on Saturday, March 2, to enrich a new generation of children. "Winnie the Pooh" will be given by The Pennington Players at 1:30 p.m. at The Dutch Neck School, sponsored by the West Windsor P.T.A. Left to right are Glenn Todd as Piglet, Olivia Bayard as Christopher Robin, Sandy Jefferson as Winnie and George Kolitsas as Owl.

count of the life of Gypsy Rose Lee. Mr. Lyon would not comment on reports that his production will be presented as a film strip.

For "Gypsy" Mr. Lyon needs a leather-lunged mother who can play the Ethel Merman role, a child who can play Baby June and assorted supporters.

Auditions will be held next Saturday, Sunday and Monday at McCarter Theatre and must be arranged for in advance by calling the theatre, WA 1-8700, and making an appointment.

Children only will be auditioned on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Adults will be heard on Sunday from 1-3 p.m.

and on Monday from 8-10 p.m. Last year's P. J. & B. production was "Anything Goes" and the 1961 offering was "Gyps and Dolls."

RAPUNZEL IS NEXT

In Children's Series. "The Stone Tower," a witty and fanciful adaptation of "Rapunzel," will be performed at the McCarter Theatre at 8:00 on Tuesday, March 12. This is the second in the current Children's Entertainment Series, sponsored by the Princeton Borough P.T.A.

The play, written by Nicholas S. Gray, one of England's leading playwrights for children, is a new production by the Equity Library Theatre for Children. The music, dancing and magic effects add excitement to the Brothers Grimm plot of the woodcutter's daughter locked in a tower by a powerful witch.

Tickets may be obtained through Mrs. V. W. O'Neill of 115 Lafayette Road between 1 and 3 Mondays through Fridays.

MISS HODGES TO PERFORM In Murray Benefit. Cecelia B. Hodges will present a program of dramatic scenes from plays, poems and short stories in a benefit performance at Murray Theatre. The program will take place Sunday, March 17, at 8 p.m.

Proceeds from the presentation will go to the new Study Center and Tutoring Program Center at Dorothea House. The program was created to help junior and senior high school students requiring a place to study or aid with their homework assignments.

Miss Hodges will draw her material from Restoration and modern drama, from Elizabethan playwrights and poets and from modern poetry and the short story. Her performance will include full costume with lighting and props. In private life, she is Mrs. Henry Drewry, 2 Glenview Drive, Princeton.

She has previously acted in these: "The Mad Hatter" and "Ghosts," Anouilh's "Antigone" and "The Dangerous Corner" by J. B. Priestley. Tickets for the presentation may be purchased at the door on March 17 or from Mrs. Peter Putnam, 48 Roper Road at $2 each. Checks should be made payable to D. D. Putnam.

OFF TO SUMMER
Or a Walk in the Rain. The English Shop is ready for any weather these days, with a full rack of rain-proof coats, a locker full of bathing suits, and a garden of perennials, including Madras and silk.

Pale sage, rose beige or blue, has been fashioned into a classic, light-weight coat to wear on a cool spring day, or during a fresh spring shower. A deeper royal blue with the pleasing rough tweedy texture of a terric's coat, makes a similar garment to keep you dry in the rain.

Moving on to dry land, we find the English Shop well supplied with those trim, skinned down three-piece suits that are so useful in spring and summer. Madras, still among us, has been used for a three-piece with box jacket and yellow sleeveless blouse whose collar comes out over the jacket.

Another, in deep slate denim, has a sleeveless blue paisley jacket whose roll-up sleeves are faced with the paisley. Pale sage Moygashel in box jacket and skirt teams up with a paler skirt, that at interesting "L" stitching on the jacket.

Evan Picome's white with navy dots has a navy-belted full skirt and shirt top, for more casual wear. Shimmering orange gold silk from the looms of Mr. Mort will make your most exciting spring cocktail dress. It's a simple sheath with wide U neck and a very deep square back, marked at the lower edge by four self buttons, like a Chesterfield coat.

Limpid blue for a slim-stemmed blonde wraps in back with a surprise closing. There's a flat bow at the side, and a choice in white, too, if you don't want blue. Two, if you bow at mid-high or thereabouts, emphasize a shift dress with a narrow, deep V in back. This one comes in black or white.

Mr. Mort turns out a sophisticated black with high Empire waist and then makes it go all soft with a wide-eyed white collar as big as a saucer. For just plain old daytime, try a supple jersey done with navy pinstriped skirt, white top and navy-red embroidery against the white. Slices of fruit and fancy wheels in shades of pink and red circle about a natural linen with simple cut. Comes in shades of brown and grey, too.

A deep orange Moygashel has a shoestring sash, no collar and front buttons. By it in blue, too. Or, choose Lynbrook's natural cotton with a vyle and hem border of brilliant Brazilian butterfies.

And in case you were frightened away by the brevity of our bathing-suit description, let us assure you that The English Shop has other styles as well. Little pink clovers, demure as can be, cover a white stretch suit with diagonal hip tucks, and modest sage-grey gemmetries overlay white suit with boy leg. There's also the all-white pique with buttons down the front. Looks almost like a dress.

TIME FOR LIME

Just A Squeeze. The time for lime is now. We have the word from Rosedale Mills, corner of Alexander Street and Faculty Road, and when we say "lime," we're not talking about the onset of gin and tonic season, but about the kind of lime you spread on a lawn.

Alternating freeze and thaw makes the earth work and heave, and this allows the lime to be massaged into the ground. In case you wish to extend this philosophy and apply fertilizer, the word from Rosedale Mills is "wait." You will just lose nitrogen if you go around tossing fertilizer before it's time. Everything in season.

This has been a pretty good winter for lawns, you'll be happy to know. There has been no "snow mold"—that smothering of the lawn under a weight of snow that keeps oxygen from getting through. Lots of moisture is now frozen into the lawn, and when we get a good thaw, it will seep down through the roots and benefit everyone except the man who has to mow a thicker, healthier lawn.

Well, can't have everything.

Speaking of the end of wintered, Rosedale reminds hir lovers that there is less around to eat at this time of the year

Sauce for the Sand

Snow may be knee-deep by the time you read this, but we assure you that your thoughts are far away into the sands of summer, and so we bring before you the "Saucette," a piece of spice to spice your summer. Or your cruise, if that's your way of life.

"Saucette" is, if one can use the term in this instance, a bathing suit. It comes in two pieces, one considerably larger than the other, to The English Shop by way of Rose Marie Fern. And what a sensible, tweedy establishment like The English Shop is doing with this little mix is an indiscreet question you'd better not ask.

"Saucette" has light stretch pants, a bra and a bright lemon color splashed with slices of orange. It has a friend called "Flirt," similar in stature, made of broad ticking stripes. You'll be able to hear it lick all the way down the beach.

than any other time. The seeds of autumn have long since been consumed, and there certainly isn't anything new popping up. Families who were wildly enthusiastic about feeding birds back in the fall, may lose their initial enthusiasm when February and March roll around, but birds are hungrier than ever.

Rosedale has packaged bird mixes, of course. But did you know that some people like to blend their own? For these connoisseurs of natural appetite, Rosedale has separate seeds—wheat, sunflower, Milo, millet and the like. Mix and match, just like coffee beans.

We do not intend to get into an argument about which birds like how much of what, and whether cardinals prefer cut apples to raisins, or whether cardinals like sunflower seeds or peanuts. Just go to Rosedale and place your order.

For other kinds of pets, Rosedale has a full order, too. Fifty-pound bags of dog food, 34 different dog-food brands in cans. Vionate (a vitamin-mineral mix), cod liver oil, dips for fleas and ticks—and all subject to Rosedale's free delivery. Many dog-owners simply leave a standing order —Continued on Page 16

"DISCIPLE" IN DEBUT to Intime Productions, its fortunate for Princeton's Theatre Intime and the audience of "The Devil's Disciple" at Murray Theater that George Bernard Shaw concentrated the force of his philosophic comedy in the play's title role.

Although it's doubtful that G.B.S. had Dan Deitch in mind when he created the character Richard Dudgeon in his play on the American Revolution, the Princeton University sophomore covarts through the role apparently unconscious of the fact. Last appreciated at Renwick Harvard in Triangle's "Ahead of the Game." Mr. Deitch has had considerable acting experience during his brief career at Princeton and he drew upon it quite well Saturday night at Murray in the delight of all present.

With some notable exceptions, the cast does not quite match Mr. Deitch's brilliance.
However, except for a brief period during the second act when the star's ability is made manifest by his absence, the production does not suffer a great deal.

Most notable as supporting characters are Starling Lawrence and Samuel Perry. Mr.
Lawrence plays the pretentious but underec'd General Bur-lystone in the same high-handed manner and with equal success as he did Betty Coward in Tri-angle's latest presentation.

Mr. Perry, who is normally stationed on the other side of the floodlights in his position as reviewer for The Daily
"Princetonian," proves himself a better comedian than critic in the role of the blundering Major Swindon. Messrs. Perry and Lawrence are both perfect foils for the rebellious Dudgeon.

In the other leading roles,
Slater Crawford as the pastor-turned-soldier Anthony Anderson and Judith Simms as his manager's wife are adequate.
Mary Leavmouth capably maintains the audience's attention as the puritanical Mrs.
Dudgeon in the comedy's early moments before Mr. Deitch appears upon the stage.

The comedy weakest—not merely at the fault of the cost—in the moments of its exposition. Sluggish and consequently his characters, appears desirous of rushing through

THE WHIP HAND: George Chakiris, Yvette Mimieux and Charlton Heston (left to right) in a tense scene from "Diamond Head" now at the Playhouse.

the play's expository portions and getting on with the action.
Thus, the playwright applies his skill most deftly to the comedy's moving force in the person of Richard Dudgeon and Mr. Deitch doesn't disappoint him.

The production staff is capably headed by William Kane, producer, and Marshall Johnson as technical director with assists from Rob Stephenson, stage manager, and Henry Blackiston, assistant stage manager. Except for one anachronistic safety match, the props are handled well by John Clum, Peggy Wiedbusch and Richard Krugman.

Those who missed the performance this past weekend will have the opportunity to view the comedy on Friday or Saturday night at 8:30 or Monday and Friday, March 7 and 8, same time, same place.

16, at 8 p.m. in the Princeton High School auditorium for the benefit of the Heart Fund.
A preview of the show will be given March 10 at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

The "Fantasy" will feature Cossack dancing, taught by Mike Danchoff, a ballroom exhibition by Mrs. Bayer and Thomas Zeng, and various numbers from the classic and popular repertoire.

Soloists will be Ashley Putnam, Mary Bayer, Gail Greene and Maureen Montgomery.
Other members of the cast sister permission to marry the native boy, wanting no half-breed to eventually inherit the estates. That sets up the violent conflict, completed in Heston's desire to run for the Senate from Hawaii. Further excitement develops when Miss Nuyen's humiliated brother seeks revenge on the hated Heston. The performances are strong throughout.

PRINCE AND GARDEN

Divorce. Italian Style (now playing) stars Marcello Mastroianni, who came to public attention as the reporter in "La Dolce Vita." The picture was voted best comedy at Cannes. Mastroianni has an exaggerated dead-pan style, reminiscent of the old master,
Buster Keaton.

He portrays an aging and bored Sicilian nobleman who's tired of his giggling and shrewish wife. He conceives an intricate plot to get rid of her in order to marry a tender and luscious younger cousin. Since divorce is not legal in Italy, he schemes to coastruct a situation in which he can kill his wife as an affair of honor.

Supporting roles are played by Daniela Rocca, previously seen in low-cut costumes in adventure pictures, and Stefania Sandrelli. In accepted Italian style, the story and the camera do not hesitate at the door of the bedroom, yet the comedy, even with sex added, remains at the broadest level. Comment: Italian farce.

 "Because," he replied, "I

Although Mr. Love was ap-

 the case was heard in Borough

HOSPITAL REPORTS
At Annual Meeting. Upwards of 150 persons went to the annual meeting of the Princeton Hospital Corporation on Monday night in the Princeton High School auditorium. In calm, quiet fashion, they heard the corporation unanimously adopt the new by-laws and vote into office an unexpected slate of trustees.

George W. Conover is the president of the corporation, succeeding John H. Wallace, Jr. who had served as a Board member since 1945.

New vice-presidents are Richard G. Magill, Bobber
 Garber and James S. Hill. John C. Whitwell is the new treasurer and Frederick P. Lawrence, Jr. new assistant treasurer. Leslie L. Vivian, Jr. will serve as the new secretary assisted by John W. Kaufman.
 New members elected to the Board of Trustees are Mrs.
 Hans C. Bauer, Mr. Lawrence
 Charles H. Maers and Julius L. Stern. Mr. Magill was re-elected.

Modernization and improvements were the keynote of the annual report presented by the trustees. But there was, as always, the underlying note of regret that the hospital must operate at a loss.

"Every medical advance can be measured in terms of added hospital costs and added hospital personnel," said Mr.
 Conover, making his final report as treasurer before moving on to the president's chair.
 He pointed to earnings of $2,642,731.26 and expenses of $2,725,923.51, or a deficit of $83,192.25, and reminded members of the corporation that the main problem at Princeton Hospital, as in many other hospitals, is "the inadequate payments for services rendered to Blue Cross subscribers." More than half of all patients admitted to the hospital have Blue Cross coverage,
 the annual report stated.
 Mr. Wallace and Mr. Conover pointed out that Charles Howell, the state commissioner of banking and insurance controls, is aware of this situation and that remedy is on the way.
 For 1963, Mr. Conover said,
 Mercer County Freeholders have increased their contribution for the care of the inpatient by $70,000 and have, in addition, provided $60,000 in matching funds to implement the Kerr-Mills Act in Mercer County.
 Our congratulations and appreciation are extended to the Freeholders for their cooperation. Mr. Conover said in 1962, the hospital received from Mercer County $38,550.

TOGETHER, 55 YEARS OF SERVICE. Princeton Hospital employees were honored at Monday's annual meeting for long service. From the left, Cecil A. Sinclair and Theodore H. Kennedy, 20 years apiece; and Nathaniel J. McKee, 15 years. (Hank Chachowski Photo)

The new pediatrics department was opened in January, and 10 private rooms and one semi-private room were remodeled and made ready for medical and surgical patients by the end of the year.

Work is now in progress on the new intensive Care Unit next to the operating suite in the area formerly occupied by Pediatrics. This nine-bed unit will have a modern electronic monitoring system to provide continuous and accurate measurement of the vital functions of each patient — pulse rate, temperature, respiration and blood pressure — to improve observation and treatment of seriously ill patients who require special nursing care.
 A final phase of the remodeling program calls for relocation of the recovery room and remodeling of the Operating Suite. Completion of this phase depends on adding to the power plant.

Doctors' Report. Reporting for the Medical and Dental Staff, Dr. Archibald Sheeran, president, said that in the decade since 1952, the staff had grown from 39 to 70 attending and associate medical members.

Psychiatry showed the greatest expansion, with a four-fold increase. Dr. Sheeran said, followed by ophthalmology, pathology and radiology, which are three times as large, and the pediatrics and general practice staff which has doubled.

MEETING OF THE MINDS
At School Board Session.
 The student board of education of Princeton High School worked a smiling soft sell on the Borough Board of Education Tuesday night. Eight of their nine ideas for school improvement met with board approval.
 Shiny-haired, lively and backed with facts, the students impressed the senior board with their presentations. Brian Smiley served as president of the student group.

Job Plan. Arthur Brooks outlined a work-study plan for students taking the general course. Both juniors and seniors having a C average would be eligible.
 He stressed the need for a department head to organize and operate the program, and outlined several work problems, such as age requirements cited by law and the union shops maintained by the Acme and A & P stores. The enthusiastic board referred the matter to its Instructional Committee and to Kenneth Mc-
 Call, the high school principal.

Girls Gain. Marilyn Maxwell called the board's attention to the fact that nearly 100 girls are sidelined during winter gym periods. As only a small portion of the class can play basketball in the girls' gym, she asked for gymnastic equipment, similar to the apparatus installed during the past year for the boys. Several of the senior board members suggested that part of the equipment be purchased immediately, and this was turned over to committee for action.
 Two plans for fund raising were approved in general.
 Elaine Coleote and Caroline Jukes suggested that money be raised for a student scholarship through an after-school-hours soft drink machine to be located near the boys' gym and through an outdoor telephone

ART
In Princeton

TOWN'S TOPICS announces with pleasure that frequent reports on Art in Princeton will now regularly be made by Mrs. Peter G. Cook, an alumna of Smith College, where she studied art both practical and theoretical, the wife of the well-known portrait artist, Her father, John Lukowicz, one of the first ten artists to give New Hope, Pa. its reputation as an art center, a member of the National Academy of Design.

GALLERY 100 EXHIBIT OF "JERUSALEM WINDOWS"

At Gallery 100 the current exhibition entitled "The Jerusalem Windows" is comprised of a carefully-matched set of lithographs in color by Marc Chagall. The panels are based on the celebrated stained-glass windows which Chagall designed for the synagogue of the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center.

The windows, executed in France and on view in Paris in 1962 at the Modern Museum in New York City during 1961, were installed in Hadassah in 1962. The lithographs have been done since from the finished windows, but faithfully the final sketches in India ink and watercolor which the artist made in preparation for the master work.

Initially, one is assailed by the startling color of these lithographs and then aware of the decorative quality of their facile-like characters. The fascination which grows as one studies the individual pictures comes from understanding the story of this commission and thus finding the religious content referred to by Chagall as his message. The subject matter and the limitations of a stringent Jewish Law, as well as a complex material to work in, posed a challenge met by the artist through his experience and his deep religious faith in an artistic expression which charges the pictures with meaning. Chagall's youth in Russia was strongly influenced by the peasants and artisans of a Jewish community where tales and legends were a traditional part of the mythical Hassidic movement. From this background he chose a familiar biblical theme, the Blessings of Jacob and Moses to the Twelve Tribes of Israel, drawing both subjectively and creatively from the Old Testament verses of Genesis and Deuteronomy.

Since Mosiac Law prohibits the representation of the human form, Chagall turned to iconography, which he uses imaginatively to illustrate the character of each Son of Israel and his tribe. Symbols of the Jewish Law such as the Torah and the seven-branched candelabra, and the signs of the Zodiac and the Elements, heraldic animals and birds fill the panels with no other illusion to Man than in representing his hands held in prayer or his eyes as the windows of his soul. Judah is the crimson lion, Dan the vermillion lion's cub, Joseph the fruitful bough and each one is woven into an interpretation of the corresponding passage from the Bible.

Naturally in printmaking, one misses the translucency of glass through which light shines mysteriously. One misses, as insistence of design which the lending of the actual windows strengthens and the subtlety of the grisaille, painting on the glass itself, other finishing techniques.

On the other hand, the lithographs are not without a uniquely reminiscent of the originals. The juxtaposition of shimmering and pure color produces a light-flooded and shimmering effect as in the print of "Reuben" who is described in the accompanying verse as "unstable as water." The fish flicker through an abstract pattern of blues and greens which move as water filtered with light from above. The Dove of Peace rises into a limpid sky of infinite space. This lithograph typifies the talent of Chagall to produce an idea which a child can understand as a simply told Bible Story, an idea which a man can appreciate as a vital expression of the artist's faith fitting to the vitality of the new state of Israel.

Name Wanted

How does the name "John Witherspoon High School" for the Borough's planned $1,850,000 elementary school? This suggestion is being considered by the Board of Education.

John Witherspoon, clergyman, educator and signer of the Declaration of Independence, served from 1768 to 1784 as the sixth president of Princeton University. The present Witherspoon School was named for him. Other suggestions are sought by the school board. It is a name such as this that we are looking for," Board President Graham Hahner said at Tuesday's meeting.

garet Greenfield, was referred to the education committee, and the request for a senior lounge set forth by Caroline Jukes was referred to Dr. Stroup and Mr. Atchard with a favorable recommendation.

The only losing idea was the perennial suggestion for an electric scoreboard for football, presented by Paul Waldstad. "He's made the best case so far across the years," commented Dr. Elmer Homrighausen. The board suggested that Mr. Moore's committee investigate possible alternatives, such as wiring a clock to the present board, or obtaining a second-hand board.

Others present as members of the high school board of education were Stella Sande, as superintendent of schools; Michael O'Kane, principal; Carol Dreyfus, secretary to the school board, and James Norris, board attorney.

A friend was telling us about the Pennington, not only the world's largest building, but also the most unusual, a modern practical floor for its purpose. It has 5 sides, 5 floors, and 5 concentric rings (one ring within another) each connected with the other by 17-spoke-like corridors. It has 17 1/2 miles of ramps and corridors, yet the walking distance between any 2 rooms is only 1500 feet, about 1/3rd mile, so it's about a six minute walk from one office to the most distant one in the building. You could put the U.S. Capitol in any one of its five wedge-shaped sections, yet instead of complicating its building, the unusual design enabled its construction at a lower cost per square foot than for any comparable building in Washington. There are 32,000 military personnel and civilian employees working within its walls every day, which is the average working population of a city of 100,000 people. The working population of our building, we might say with tongue in cheek, is a bit smaller, but for your satisfaction in the purchase and care and its maintenance we humbly submit we are important to you. Councilmen Reply to Hite.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The recent insinuations in the local press (Editor's note: Last week's letter from John Hite against two outstanding leaders of the Princeton community cannot be allowed to pass without comment.

First, the essential fact concerning the Water Company transaction which has been overlooked is the responsibility of the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners as defender of the public interest. The recent opinion of the Board states:

"We would like to point out that although this Board does not have the jurisdiction over the Mayor of the Borough of Princeton as such, it does have jurisdiction over Elizabeth and Princeton (water companies), and any failure to fulfill their statutory obligations can be redressed on complaint to the Board by any customer or other interested party. While it may be superfluous to do so, we would also like to point out that such complainants be they related to service or rates of any other jurisdictional matter affecting the public served, do not require concurrence in or approval of any municipal official as a condition precedent to Board action thereon."

Secondly, every well informed citizen knows that the Mayor of the Borough of Princeton does not sit on the Zoning Board, nor does he have a vote on Borough Council except in case of tie. The responsibility for Council action in zoning matters clearly rests on the Councilmen elected by the citizens to represent them.

We believe that if insinuations of the type recently published are permitted to pass unchallenged, the loss to our community in the willingness to highly qualified individuals to stand for public office would be incalculable.

Therefore, we cannot stand silent while the public is being misled and while an official is being subjected to irresponsible attack.

Hite's Charges Refuted.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I am somewhat surprised that you would publish such a letter that is signed by John Hite in the issue of February 21. I presume you feel that all communications must be published regardless of the contents or source.

At first glance I thought such a despicable and unbelievable charge against the character of both the President of Princeton University and the Mayor of the Borough as that by Mr. Hite needed no reply. However, I realize that some readers may not know what the shouting is all about. Mr. Hite to make such inferences impugning the integrity of the President and the Mayor with no shred of evidence to go on.

Having failed of reappointment to the University faculty Mr. Hite very evidently harbors a grudge and displays it in his letter. Having been rejected by the voters of Princeton Township he now makes it his obvious political charge against our Mayor who is performing such splendid service for the whole community. The inescapable inference by Mr. Hite that President Green and Mayor Patterson made a "deal"—the University to receive a zoning variance in exchange for the sale of the University's interest in the Princeton Water Company necessarily implies that the President alone could dispose of the Water Company stock or that the Board of Trustees was in on the deal, and that the Mayor alone could grant a zoning variance. Obviously this is impossible.

There are nine members of the Planning Board, five members of the Zoning Board and six members of the Borough Council. All or a majority of them took part in deciding this matter of a zoning variance for the University.

Does any sensible person in this community believe for one instant that the President of Princeton University, the Mayor of Princeton and all of these citizens could be involved in any such fantastic deal as Mr. Hite would have us believe? CHARLES B. BERDMAN, JR.

Library Site Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics: In this era of tremendous growth of public interest in facts, ideas and up-to-date information, and in the availability to old and young of the printed materials therefore, public library use nationally is on a sharp upcurve. It may be predicted that 1962 figures when published, will show that American citizens borrowed over 600 million public library books last year.

The idea that a public library is just a quiet, respectable house of books, used mostly by children and ladies for leisure reading, will be wiped out when Princeton gets its library into a modern attractive streamlined building, going up all over the U. S., contrast sharply with the traditional Great Stone Face.

They are proving a tremendous asset to business districts and at the moment several such libraries are parts of downtown renewal projects. I believe the new library will be Princeton's greatest civic improvement for years. It deserves a worthy location.

1. Saving money on a library site is not a public emergency. The objective of a good library is to bring its services into the life stream and the daily activities of every citizen. Location is the major factor.

The writer was formerly librarian of a city with 27 branch libraries, six were on stream sites which cost little. Their use was slight; five of them have been closed because they were such poor investments, both as to capital costs and as to annual operating budgets.

2. A library struggles for every dollar of support. It buys as many excellent books as it can, it seeks and pays salaries to as many staff members as it can afford, in Princeton's case, of high ability and devotion with one of the most able directors in the east. What happens to the taxpayer's dollar? Not only the efforts of the staff, but the attractiveness of the building, its efficient and economical layout, and especially its location, make all the difference in how fast each book turns over, how great the circulation per capita, how many informational questions are looked up for readers. The return per tax dollar is influenced more by good or poor location than by any other single factor.

3. The idea that easy parking is so important is indeed mistaken. What Mr. Healy, in a statement published last week cites as "a research project conducted by Opinion Research Center in 1961" as to library location was an informal inquiry made not by that organization, but independently by one of its staff.

His figures, that 73 per cent of the users came by auto, and 69 per cent said that the library was their chief objective, could well be used to prove that the present location, on busy Nassau Street is not a handicap but rather an asset to library use. And if one of the questions had been worded a bit more exactly it would doubtless have shown that 75 to 70 per cent of all present adult users do other errands on their trip to the library.

4. I believe that every one of the ideas and proposals in Mr. Healy's statement has been given long and careful consideration by the Library Trustees.

He did not suggest anything not already studied out by the Board during a three year period. Every new library project is supposed to be located and planned for at least the next twenty years.

5. A thorough, detailed, 50-page study of the Effective Location of Public Library Buildings" was published in 1959 by the University of Illinois. Based on data gathered from all over the country, it included numerous cases conclusively proving that such locations as Community Gardens would prove fatal to the library, whose objective is to give more service at least cost. . . Rutland, Vt., about Princeton's size, swapped its strategic downtown plot and an old Carnegie building for a usable post office building, with three times as much space and not so far from the main stem as Community Gardens are from Nassau Street. Fifteen years passed before circulation caught up with the loss in use. Five succeeding librarians have quit in frustration, after trying to get back on Merchant's Row.

6. The geographic or the population center of a town has little relation to effective library location. It is where the pedestrian crowd moves that a library serves most completely. . . Having studied more library sites than any one in the country, I can say that in the light of what has happened in scores of other cities, library use would be between 25 and 40 per cent less at Community Gardens than at the site already chosen after such careful study by the Trustees.

7. Perhaps the proposal to continue service at Blairbridge House "as a branch" was not meant seriously. We would then have two library plants, two library service staffs, less than a mile apart.

This would be a strange and costly solution for a community like the Borough and Township. I think it would cost more than the tax loss on the new Lahiere-Kane parking property.

8. If the new building is planned efficiently and economically, the amount of ground needed at Writtemoon and Wiggin will be considerably less than the Lahiere-Kane parking space so it is hardly fair to say that the Lahiere-Kane plot investment is solely for the library.

Where's the Needle? Women skilled in the art of needlecraft are invited to contribute their craftsmanship to the Princeton Hospital Fete which will be held this year on June 8. As good needlewomen know, three months is not too far out to begin work on a creweled bag, an intricately smoked child's dress, a Scandinavian sweater or a creative piece of tapestry.

Articles to be offered for sale in the Needlework Shop can be as varied as the ingenuity of the contributors. Women will be asked to donate their articles for sale are asked to confer with Mrs. William Adamson, WA 4-6336, chairman of the Needlework Shop Committee.

Her colleagues on the committee are Mrs. David Miller, Mrs. Frank Hubby and Mrs. Charles Taggart.

For say, 50 pounds of dog-food every three weeks, and along it comes in the Roadside truck. Just like the milkman. You can also buy monkey food, too. Rosedale sells animal mixtures to many laboratories, including those that have monkeys, so if you have a monkey, too, the stuff is right there.

For cats, Purina has a new cat chow which you can leave out in a dish for nibbling. It's like dry cereal, and some cats like to take a bite now and again between naps. This dry quality makes the chow particularly useful for cats who are left alone for two or three days while a family is away. Won't spoil. Neither will the cat.

Horse feed, for ponies or riding horses, poultry and dairy feed are all in stock—live stock, of course—at Rosedale.

Incidentally on the garden side along the line for your lawn, Rosedale Mills has some pleasing new flowerpots in a shape called "wills." These are familiar red clay pots, like the ones that have been around since the Garden of Eden, but they are shaped with a slight and graceful flare and without the classic collar. They come in sizes from two to 12 inches. The 12 regular, traditional ones are here, too, in sizes up to 14 inches.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you approve or disapprove of the Witherspoon-Wiggins Street site that has been recommended as the best location for the new public library?

Where asked: At the Public Library.

Miss Jean S. Rieneour, State Road: I think it would be better if we could get something more in the center of things. I feel it won't be as convenient as the present site — of course, it will be closer to the kids in school. Too bad they couldn't tear this place down and build a bigger library here.

Mrs. Anita Cohen, 24 Little Brook Road, housewife: I approve of it. I go to the library when I do my shopping on Nassau Street and I personally don't mind walking 'an extra block or two.

Mrs. Edward Roberts, 44 Mercer Street, teacher: Yes, I approve of the proposed site. I think it is a good location. I wonder if there are really as few people (27%) who walk to the library as that survey says. You can't mean several things by "walking to." Community Gardens is out of the way for me; it would mean a special trip. This is supposed to be a joint library. Locating it out there, to me, just isn't central. And it does raise a question in my mind since it is a Township resident who wants it out there, in the first place. There is also the question of the number of children who will be involved. It would be much harder for the children to go out to Community Gardens. I teach at the Witherspoon School. It would be ideal for them; the high school students walk by on their way home from school; it would be better for the Nassau Street School children. If we are going to encourage our children to use the library, we should make it convenient to them.

Mrs. Charles Young, 127 Wilson Road, housewife: I think it's fine. It's accessible to many people; it's not way out by the shopping center.

Mrs. Bernard Weinstein, 30 Mercer Street, housewife: I think it is a good location, but has anyone thought of using the Lahiere-Kane site as the location for the new library and keeping the parking lot as a parking lot? The lot just built the parking lot a few years ago. Why go ahead and tear it up? Especially since the two locations are only a few hundred feet apart. Seems to me they'd be saving the expense of providing for parking. Also, any space from the Lahiere-Kane lot left over could be used as parking spaces adjacent to the library building.

Miss Lynette Palmer, 58 Linden Lane, senior, Princeton High School: Yes, I approve, considering the other places would probably be much farther out. The parking is especially difficult here. It's easy enough for us who live in the center of town to walk, but I'm sure those who come from out-of town will appreciate the parking facilities of the new location.

Max D. Blumefeld, 39 Randall Road, manager, Princeton Plant, American Cyanamid: I disagree because I think it is too close to a populous center and it would only create an additional parking problem. I think a better site could be selected without having to spend large sums of money for the purchase of land to provide parking places that would be away by locating the library at its presently proposed site. I don't have any particular alternative location in mind. I just don't think the library has to be located in the center of town.

Mrs. Stephen L. Adler, 32 Chambers Street, assistant to the national director, Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation: The closer to the center of town the site is, the more I'll prefer it. I would much prefer this one to the Community Park suggestion. I was horrified when I read in the paper they might put it out there.

T. C. Hale, Cuyler Hall, Princeton University sophomore: I feel it is all right. My only reservation is that the location may be in a less desirable neighborhood, particularly at night. There were a couple of Princeton kids beat up in Trenton the other night and that was on my mind. I believe there has been some trouble in that area at night.

Mrs. Leslie Luck, Laurel Circle, housewife: I certainly think they need a new and larger library and since central Princeton is expanding, this site will serve in the future. It's sort of out of the way now but in 20 years, with Princeton growing the way it is, it won't be.

Michael Hawk, 293 Riverside Drive, Princeton High School junior: They must have put a lot of thought into it and I would suppose that this is the best available site. It appears to be in a good location for the school students and it is handy to the uptown area.

Mrs. Isabelle Ireland, Yardville, secretary for RCA foreign patents, 201 Nassau Street: I think it is going to be inconvenient to a lot of girls who go to the library on their lunch hour. Men who will now have to take their car, I'll still walk but I probably won't go as often probably twice a month instead of once a week. I'm not a Princeton resident, so I can't go to — Continued on Page 18

Twenty-One Born. Twelve boys and nine girls were born last week at Princeton Hospital.

Kraft, Lawrenceville Road, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bertrand, Van Kirk Road, February 18; Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schwear, Dayton, February 19; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Skaar, Green Avenue, Belle Mead; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Howard, Bradford Road, Hightstown, Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Light, 52 Vine Way, Bordentown, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Falcho, Robbinsville, all on February 20; Mr. and Mrs. Lauren D. Rhine, The Columbus Boychoir School; Mr. and Mrs. S. Serge Rizzo, 139 Cedar Lane and Mr. and Mrs. J. Juan Carli, Dayton, all on February 23.

Ray Craig, 23 Moran Avenue, graduate student, psychology, No. 1 live closer to this one. It would mean a longer walk for me.

James Boskey, 1939 Hall, University junior; I'm a Hall, University student and from my point of view it would still be convenient enough to the campus for me to use. But I understand it will provide enough parking spaces for residents who will have to drive to use it. Therefore it would seem to me an ideal site.

Mrs. Waldrop S. Pike, 101 Leabrook Lane, housewife; I think it is fine as long as adequate parking facilities are provided. It seems to be a central location for most.

Roseoe Williams, 99 Dempsey Avenue, Princeton High School junior; I didn't know they were going to move it but it sounds like a good idea to me. Even if they moved it outside of town I'd still go because this is the only library I can use.

William Aiken, 87 Brookstone Drive, PHS sophomore; I feel it's probably not as accessible as the present location. Other than that I don't think it would be too much different. We could go to more room here. It's too cramped.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forney, 28 Stillwell Road, Kendall Park, February 17; Mr. and Mrs. Romm W. Langford, Meadow Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blake, Lakeside Apartments, both on February 18; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Piller, Route 518, Blawenburg and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lovelace, 20 Maple Avenue, Plainsboro, both on February 19; Mr. and Mrs. David Ruel, 44 Einstein Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lovell, 41 Emerald Road, Franklin Park, all on February 20; Mr. and Mrs. David Duchai, Suidam Road, Somerset, February 21.

P.T.A. TO MEET

At Littlebrook School. The Littlebrook School P.T.A. will hold a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school's all-purpose room. A panel discussion will take place on the subject "Teaching Social Studies Before High School."

The Bereans Did Their Own Thinking

Not many of us think for ourselves when it comes to matters in religion. We prefer to leave religious subjects and Bible issues to those supposedly trained and skilled in this field—the priests, theologians, pastors, and ministers. Sometimes we get the idea that the Bible cannot be understood by common people. Some religious leaders even teach and encourage this view.

Does the Bible say anything about the ability and the responsibility of the average person to understand its message? Most certainly it does.

To the Christians at Ephesus, Paul wrote: "Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is" (Ephesians 5:17). Surely God does not require of man that which is beyond his ability.

The Jews of Berea, for example, are described in the New Testament as "noble." Yet, they were not famous, nor were they rich or powerful. In fact, they were somewhat obscure. The description of their nobility is recorded in Acts 17:11:

"These were more noble than those in Thessalonica in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so."

This reference to the Bereans is significant because it is plainly a tribute to a religious people. The Bereans were noble in attitude. They were noble because they were eager to be taught the truth—they were sincerely truth-seekers! Although ready to receive religious teaching from others, they were at the same time very careful to examine such teaching in the light of the scriptures.

Certainly the Bereans could not be called professional theologians. They were simple people of honest hearts and open minds—moreover, a people with a profound respect for the authority of the sacred scriptures.

Unfortunately, this attitude of the Bereans—the spirit of independent, personal investigation—does not prevail widely among religious people in the twentieth century. It is a sad commentary on our lack of love for the truth (2 Thessalonians 2:10-12). Man is in a pitiable state (a sad plight) when he possesses neither the intellectual vitality nor the spiritual interest to study God's will for himself.

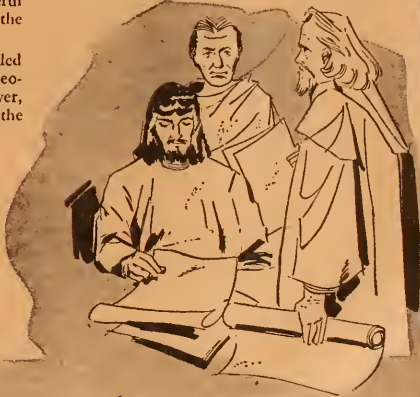

The New Testament abounds with evidence that harmonizes with the attitude of the noble Bereans. The apostle Peter insisted that Christians should know what they believe and why they believe it, "ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (1 Peter 3:15).

The apostle John places the responsibility directly upon every Christian to follow the pattern of the Bereans and prove every teaching to be sure it is from God: "because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1).

By revelation John commends very highly the favorable characteristic of the church of Ephesus of being ready at all times to check truth against error. They had "tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars . . ." (Revelation 2:2).

Members of churches of Christ today are simply trying to reproduce faithfully the church of our Lord as it existed in the first century—the same in doctrine, worship, name, organization, service, life and work. The Bible clearly teaches that the seed of the gospel—the word of God—will produce after its kind, pure and undenominational Christianity. The first century church was founded upon the basis of the word; it follows that the same word must serve as the blueprint for the twentieth century church.

We invite our friends to "search the scriptures" to see whether these things be so!

A ONE-MAN GANG NAMED COOK: Princeton forward Johnny Cook was in alone on goalie Terry Guiney of Dartmouth Saturday in his third period action. This shot was blocked, but when Cook repeated the solo effort in overtime, he won for the Tigers, 6 to 5.

SPORTS

TRIPLE TIE LOOMS
In Basketball. Now within two home games of achieving the string of nine straight victories it needed to assure itself of at least a tie in the Ivy race, Princeton's basketball team is confronted with the probability that it will share the top rung of the ladder with two other occupants.

The onrushing Tigers are heavy favorites to defeat Cornell and Columbia in Dillon Gym this weekend, thus completing their regular season with an 11-3 mark. But it is equally unlikely that Penn will lose to either of these mutual opponents at the Palestra, and Yale figures to create a three-way tie by defeating Harvard Tuesday and Dartmouth in its final three games.

Opposition Is Weak. While a degree of pressure may tell on the three title-conscious quinquets, it will be a staggering upset if either Princeton or Penn lose at home. The only hurdle of any possible size faces Yale in its trip to Cambridge, where Harvard can prove pesky.
The Crimson came o within three points (61-58) of defeating Penn last Friday, and could make matters difficult for the Elis. The game was originally booked for February 2, but was postponed last year at Harvard's request — a tremendous break for Yale, as matters turned out. Because sharpshooting Rick Kaminsky was still sidelined with a broken hand early in February.

Cornell might conceivably have caused trouble for either Penn or Princeton, despite its poor record. Such a possibility virtually vanished, however, when the Iliacs lost four of their top ten players last week through injury.

Cornell's biggest threat is its captain Jerry Saachara, who accounted for 26 points in the mid-overtime loss to Yale, while 6-7 Jerry Krumbeln also averages in double figures. Columbia may get a hot night from sophomore Neil Farber and can count on steady play from Captain Jim Cleven, but has neither the balance nor the bench to make serious trouble.

Tigers Becoming Prolific. It could be that all the comment about Penn having the best balanced team in the league should now be revised to read "Princeton." On last week's New England jaunt, which saw the Tigers record easy triumphs over Dartmouth (74-60) and Harvard (74-60), five different players were in double figures. Despite the fact that Coach Bill van Breda Kolff substituted freely.

Bill Bradley gave his best back-to-back performance since the Columbia-Cornell trip in mid-January by scoring 58 points, 28 at Hanover and 32 at Cambridge, thus removing

The Playoff Plan: March 7 and March 9

If Princeton, Pennsylvania and Yale all win their remaining games in the Ivy Basketball League, the race will end in the first triple tie since the Tigers won out over Penn and Columbia in 1955.

Following games this Saturday night, a draw will be held to determine which of the three teams will win a first-round bye. The other two will meet in a playoff Thursday, March 7, at 8 p.m. at a site still to be determined.

The winner of the first playoff and the team drawing the bye will then meet for the Ivy League championship this Saturday, March 9, announcement of the location — which will be the same for both contests — will be made at the Columbia-Princeton game Saturday night in Dillon Gymnasium.

The draw to determine the winner of the first-round bye will be held in Cambridge, Mass., after Saturday's games. The pick by lot will be made by Thomas B. Rolles, Harvard director of athletics and chairman of the Ivy League Administration Committee.

If Penn and Princeton play Thursday night, the game will be held in a neutral gymnasium somewhere in the Philadelphia area — very possibly at Villanova. If Yale is drawn to play either the Quakers or the Tigers, the site will be somewhere in New York. In either case, Saturday's game will be played at the same location as Thursday's.
In the event that Yale is eliminated by a loss to Harvard Tuesday night, Princeton and Penn will meet Thursday to determine the 1963 champion. The Ivy League winner will play St. Joseph's, Mid-Atlantic Conference champion, in the Palestra on Monday, March 11, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Added note: Both the games in Dillon Gym this weekend were sold out by Monday.

any trace of pressure on the Tigers. It is typical of the all-American that he frequently does his best away from home. Of the five times he has scored 50 points or better, only one was in Dillon Gym.

Captain Art Hyland was in particularly good form against Dartmouth, actually outscoring Bradley when he collected 27 points, playing a bit longer than the 6-5 sophomore Bill Harlow tossed in a dozen against the Indians, who raced away to an 8-0 lead and never led thereafter.

Fine rebounding by Bradley and a couple of well-timed three-point plays that he and Hyland authored helped quell the Indians quickly. From 12-10 Princeton moved out to 25-15, 34-21 and then 41-26 at the half. The victors hit for 46% in the first 20 minutes.

JOHNNY COOK

"Something happens to that boy when he steps out on the ice. I don't know exactly by what it is, but he just seems to take off. It will be interesting to see how he does."

In a typical, soft-spoken understatement, Pete Cook was commenting on his second eldest, John Folsombee Cook, when the latter arrived on the Princeton scene after three years at Exeter. Ever since, the lithe, slightly-built hockey star has been "taking off" — winding up almost, akin to a baseball pitcher as he starts his pitch — in one of the most important territories and fires a blazing shot at the goal. No player within Baker Field memory has come closer to matching Cook's picturesque play; no one is likely to equal it for years to come.

It was one of his top rink-long trips that broke up the Dartmouth game Saturday in dramatic fashion, a game-winning effort that was highlighted by the injury to Bill Hill, Princeton goalie. When Johnny's breakaway solo goal gave Princeton a hard-earned 6-5 victory, it removed the need for Hill to play another four minutes in the cage just after having his scalp stitched together.

The versatile Cook, one of the few players good enough to be used on both offense and defense, got the first of his two goals against Dartmouth Saturday when he was playing at the blue line. In all, he added five points to his career total, going into the final two games of the season with 120, a dozen more than the previous record held by John McBride '60. He is all well up in the running for individual scoring honors in the Ivy race and a solid bet to become the first Princetonian in history to achieve all-day honors

Johnny Cook, Princeton's leading scorer, during his three years on the varsity.

Fluent in Italian and French, Johnny has a bank-breaker in mind, very possibly in Italy, a country which has held particular appeal for him since a year spent there a decade ago. Before that, he'll try for a place on the U.S. Olympic team which will defend this country's title at the 1964 winter games at Innsbruck, Austria.

Myriad problems besetting Princeton hockey have kept Princeton from a high Ivy League or eastern rating during the past three seasons. But as the years pass, the faithful Rink Rats will occasionally remark to each other, "Remember how Johnny Cook used to wind up and take off the length of the ice? The crowd would actually applaud while he was faking out one player after another . . ."

Ten days earlier, the Orange and Black had blanked Yale, 1-0, and that pair, combined with the December upset Brown, appear adequate to prevent the oft-battered Tigers from turning into the cellar. Harvard was on the schedule here Wednesday night, and the season will end at Ithaca Saturday with the return game against Cornell.

Cook (see "We Congratulate") dominated the action along with Billy Hill, the sturdy, agile goalie whose graduation next year may put crimp in Princeton's dreams of hockey rejuvenation with the upcoming sophomore class. It could be that the departure of the Cook-Hill combine will be a greater loss than the depth provided by the strong Class of 1966 can match.

The extreme ability that Cook and Hill pour into each contest was never more visible than on Saturday. In a game that was tied at the end of every period (1-1, 3-3, 5-5), Cook was credited with two goals and three assists. Hill, after making many a fine save, sustained a deep gash in his scalp and three stitches. Hill, but returned with the aid of numerous stitches ten minutes later and was in the cage when Cook broke up the ding-dong affair.

Defenses Were Forus. With the exception of Brit McKeckridge, neither team could field a stand-up on defense, and both goalies were called on to block shots that never should have been taken. When one of them inevitably got by Hill and Terry Guiney of Dartmouth, the high-scoring, extra-period battle resulted.

The return of Captain Dave Hersey meant much to the demoralized Tigers, who were missing both defensemen Sam Abernethy and Edney Gamble with injuries. Hersey not only boosted morale by resuming his place as center on the first line but got the Tigers' second goal of the heated contest. He had been out of action since dislocating his shoulder on December 8 when he skated over a paper airplane tossed on the ice and slammed into the boards.

Em Hall's two goals, one for Hersey, Cook and Don Weeden said the Tigers' entrance fe-and kept up the good target record even when the reserves began to filter in.

Slower Start at Cambridge. Despite a fantastic 63% average during the first half against Harvard, Princeton found the going somewhat stickier. A 6-4 leftshander, Bob Inman, got the home team its first seven points and kept it on the 25-minute trail during most of the opening round.

Down by 20-14, and then 29-21, Harvard battled back to a deficit of no more than 33-30 before Princeton began to open the gap for the stretch run. The victors led 43-34 at the intermission and then, with Bradley giving a tremendous performance, outscored the Crimson in the first 12 minutes of the second half, 26 to 12.

Held scoreless for the first eight minutes of the game — largely because he was passing off to Chuck Berling, Hyland and Haarlow Bradley led the capacity crowd at Cambridge firmly impressed with his qualifications. From 9:24 of the first half until his withdrawal at 7:50 of the second — a space of about 24 minutes, he threw in 32 points. In the two weekend games, he made 23 of 32 field goal attempts for 72% and 12 of 14 fouls for 86%.

The gymnasiums at both Hanover and Cambridge were sold out, despite Dartmouth's last-place standing and the fact that the game at Cambridge was held at the same time the Harvard hockey team was nailing down the Ivy title by beating Yale. No one could remember when the Harvard gym was last filled — in fact, the second largest basketball crowd there within memory was present to see Bradley play last winter as a freshman.

SWEET TASTE
 From overtime Hockey Wins, Princeton's hockey cup has been filled with bitter dregs during most of the current season, but for the second time this month, the contents proved partially pleasing in the taste. Before a sellout junior prom crowd on Saturday, the Tigers outlasted Dartmouth in overtime, recording a 6-5 victory on a typically-picturesque Johnny Cook goal.

season tournament. The two schools will meet Friday, March 8, at the Fresh Pond High School gymnasium.
Will the enforced walk help or hinder the Little Tigers? It can't tell — who knows? said PHS coach Tony Borzok. "Maybe we need a week's rest."

PHS will not be the first for the two schools this season in December, they met for a pre-season scrimmage.
It was all pretty casual, reported Borzok. There were no referees, no score was kept, each coach substituted freely. "There was no indication whatever," Borzok said, "who was the better team."

Also, they met twice in 1962 when South River was on the PHS schedule. The Little Tigers defeated them twice, 64-38 at South River and 69-57 here. This time South River will have much more going for it. Whereas PHS lost four of its starting five from 1962, South River lost only one. Its record this year (at least 10 or 12 victories so far, Borzok reported) indicates South River has profited from its wealth of experience.

Neither squad should enjoy any decided height advantage if Borzok's memory serves him correctly. The lone player South River lost last year was also its tallest and he estimates The Middlesex County quiet will average between 6-0 and 6-1 this year — about the same as Princeton. Tickets, incidentally, for the match will cost the same as those for any high school contest.

Hamilton Surprises. In basketball, too, those who live by the sword of last-minute decisions, die by the sword. PHS, which had won its last three games in the final quarter, found itself the victim Tuesday as Hamilton rallied in the final two minutes to break a 53-53 deadlock and upset the visiting Little Tigers, 56-53. The victory was Hamilton's seventh and Princeton's fourth defeat in 12 outings.

Borzok was philosophical in defeat. "It was that kind of season," he said. "You win them like that, and you lose them like that."

And, in truth, it has been a harrowing winter for Borzok. The season has been awash with chaffngans: two one-point contests, one a victory, one a defeat; four more contests in which the margin of victory or defeat was four points or less; and in seven of Princeton's last nine games, the outcome has been determined in the last period.

The visitors started out as though they were going to make it two in a row this season over Hamilton. Outscoring the Hornets in the opening periods, PHS led 37-30 at the half and maintained its six-point margin until early into the final round when it led, 46-43. Then Hamilton went in to a press and the PHS offense into a tailspin.

Visibly upset by the press and rattled by the loss on fouls of explain Hank Schmidt whose departure left a big hole in Princeton's defensive play, PHS watched the rejuvenated Hornets tie it up 53-43 with 2:03 remaining.

With 36 seconds left, PHS still had a chance to pull it out when, trailing 54-53, it put the ball in play. But Dave Hill allowed himself to be tied up and in the ensuing 17 seconds, Hamilton's Adrian Gossain grabbed the ball and laid it up, bringing to an end Princeton's six-game winning streak. PHS did not score a single point in the last five minutes of play.

High scorer for both teams was Jimmy Case with 22 points. As usual, Kowalski grabbed off the most rebounds for the Little Tigers.

SANNINO EARNS BERTH in Tournament Semi-Finals. Sannino A.C. shot its way into the semi-final round of the Duncellen March of Dimes Basketball Tournament by defeating Somerset Recreation Thursday, 82-48, and Community Cleaners Saturday in a quarter final contest, 72-48.

Sannino will next face Saturday Electric of Duncellen Thursday evening at 7:15 on the Duncellen High School court. A victory here will send Sannino into the finals where its probable opponent will be the powerful Burry Birecht quintet of Elizabeth. The championship contest is scheduled for next Thursday evening, March 7, at 8:15 on the same court.

In another contest held Sunday night at the Trenton High School gymnasium, Sannino defeated the Trenton Stars in a hard-fought encounter, 37-90. The victory upset Sannino's overall record this season to 2-13.
Sunday's victory was a team effort. Former Colonial star Larry Ivan led Sannino with 33 points. Nate Bruno followed with 28, including two clutch

In other games, the Post Office squeaked by Food Machinery & Chemical, 40-39, and Princeton Hospital won its first contest in 12 outings by forcing a 10-9 win over Hill, which was unable to field a full team. Bob McGowan led the Post Office attack with 10 points while Bob Colander's 12-point effort was tops for the losers.

Behind the shooting of Tom Wallace and Al Meyers, who tallied 10 and 14 points, ETS hit for 19 points in the first period to gain a lead it never relinquished. John Field's speed Astro with 12 markers.

The Labs stayed in contention against the league-leaders until the final period when star Carl Belz dunked 10 of his 20 points to send Sannino home with its 12th consecutive victory. Joe Burns and A. J. Boccanfuso combined for 37 of the Labs' 56 points.

FINALE THURSDAY
For Hun School Quietel. The Hun School basketball team will play its final game of an up and down season, mostly down, Thursday when it travels to Newtown, Pa., for a return contest against George School.

Unless a major upset takes place, Hun should defeat George School, which is having one of its poorer seasons.

Earlier in the year, Hun defeated George, 48-42. A victory relay, the Larries' only other first place was taken by Pete Worthen with a time of 22.5 seconds in the 50-yard freestyle. Dave Beatty added a few points for the host team, placing fifth in the 400-yard freestyle.

Last week in back-to-back games, the Red and Black rebounded from a 66-55 defeat by Bryn Athyn, a game which Hun coach Bob Simpson described as, "unquestionably, our worst of the season," to a 14-11 victory over highly-rated Moorestown Friends, a 72-61 decision that Simpson labeled as "probably our best game of the year." The Bryn Athyn contest was played Thursday, February 19, in Pennsylvania. The Moorestown match was held here at the Seminary Gymnasium on Thursday.

Captain Alex Langel pumped in five straight points in the third quarter to break open a close game and thereby help his teammates atone for an earlier defeat at the hands of Moorestown. Langel started with a three-point play and followed it with another basket to increase Hun's margin to 48-40. He finished with 15 points.

Richie Patt was high for Hun with 17. Scott Page added 15 and Mike Leon 11 to account for all of Hun's double-figure performers. In winning, Hun scuttled any hopes Moorestown may have entertained of finishing first in the Penn-Jersey League.

At Bryn Athyn, Hun may have been affected by a "harrowing" bus ride in a snow storm as Simpson reported his team "just fell apart." Patt led the losers with 14 points. He was followed by Langel and Page, who hit for 12 each, and Ted Isaacson, 11.

LARRIES PLACE SECOND
in Eastern Swimming. Despite two record-breaking performances of national marks, Lawrenceville had to play second fiddle to Peekskill Military Academy in the 63rd Annual Eastern Interscholastic Swimming Championships held last weekend at Lawrenceville. The New York swimmers defeated the Larries by a 74-37% margin, with the Pine Crest School of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., finishing third in the 22-member prep school division with 34 points. The outstanding individuals for the Larries, as they have been all season, were Russ Kingery and Phil Riker.

Small Fry Hockey Set

A hockey doubleheader involving the Pee-Wee and Bantam teams of Princeton and the same-age brackets from Belmont Hill, Mass., will be played Saturday in Baker Rink.

The Pee-Wee game will begin at 3:30, the Bantams will meet at 5. Both contests are open to the public without charge.

An early start in the sport is paying dividends in both communities, with Belmont Hill's ability at the high school level clearly evident last December when its team reached the finals of the Lawrenceville Hockey Tournament before losing to a Canadian opponent. John Bernard is the organizer of the leagues here.

Kingery was outraced by world record holder Carl Roberie, a junior from Peekskill, but came back to break a national prep school mark in the 100-yard backstroke. Kingery clipped more than two seconds off the national standard, swimming the event in 55.3 seconds to beat the former record-holder Ron Wirth of Peekskill.

Riker set his record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 53 flat, eclipsing the old mark by 2.2 seconds. The Larrie star added a second place in the 200-yard freestyle.

Finishing second to Peekskill in the 200-yard freestyle was George, 48-42. A victory relay, the Larries' only other first place was taken by Pete Worthen with a time of 22.5 seconds in the 50-yard freestyle. Dave Beatty added a few points for the host team, placing fifth in the 400-yard freestyle.

Displaying a good deal of individual brilliance, the Larries were unable to match the overall power of Peekskill, which collected six firsts and three seconds and finished either one or two in every event, but the diving and 100-yard breaststroke. Lawrenceville ended its regular season with a 10-1 record.

The school's basketball team went into the State Independent School's tournament this week after having finished the season with an 11-3 record. Last Larries recorded victories last week over the Hill School, 64-53, and over Admiral Farragut Naval Academy, 76-44. Mark Haley and Bobby Moore alternated as high scorer for the Red and Black. Moore outpointed Haley, 17-15, against Admiral Farragut, but was edged by his teammate, 21-19, for scoring honors against Hill.

The Larries ran off 12 straight points early in the first period, led by a 20-8 margin at the end of the quarter and were ahead, 31-18, at the half in Saturday's contest with Hill. Moore collected 18 of his 19 points in the first half, giving way to the second string for the greater part of the remaining time.

Dropping points to the Wilsachick Hockey Club and the Trinity-Pawling School, the school's skaters ended up the season with a 2-13 record. In the two games away, the Larries were on the short end of a 4-2 score on Wednesday against Wilsachick and dropped.

MUSIC In Princeton

QUARTET IS HEARD
In McCosh 10, On Monday evening in 10 McCosh Hall, Princeton University, the quartet presented this season's second extra concert, a program by The Paganini String Quartet. The works of Paganini were Haydn's Quartet in D major (Op. 20, No. 4), Alberto Caproli's "First Quartet" and the Beethoven C-sharp minor Quartet (Op. 131). Princeton's new work, Gignester's Quartet, was composed of 15 years ago, and its composer is a native Argentine — although the uniformity might understandably have been tempted to place it about 30 years ago, in Hungary. It was, in fact, yet another quartet, sharing all manner of superficial characteristics with that masterpiece, but making in any comparable attempt to solve structural and harmonic problems.

It is not simply the derivative nature of the Gignester work to which one objects — the 19th century is full of art which is rather derivative in its attempt to recapture various aspects of Beethoven's Ninth — but rather the failure to write the piece from the inside outwards. The harmonic background in Haydn's spring most of the superficial textural features, and it is exactly at this basic structural point where most of his imitators fall down. As for the performer, it seemed rather than proficient in terms of ensemble and tone, although one wondered if the second movement, marked "Vivacissimo," were sufficiently "allegretto." The other works in the program were admirably chosen — the Haydn is almost a novelty to the concert stage, not too recognized, and the Beethoven Opus 131 is one of those masterpieces which are never unwelcome. Appreciation is due to any quartet undertaking this genre which is rather a literature with the "Hammerklavier" Sonata is to the pianist's, even if the performance fails to meet all the challenges involved.

There were more than a few moments when in everything went well, both in conception and execution, the better of the variations, for example, was quite finely played, but the opening fugue and the first movement suffered from the variable intonation which was rarely abated for long and the "Presto" would have gained from greater precision of ensemble. Granted that this movement will probably never make the effect of a Mendelssohn

PHS Choir Honored

The Princeton High School Choir has been chosen to represent the eastern United States at a convention of music educators to be held at Atlantic City this Thursday. The choir is the only representative of high school choral groups in the eastern seaboard area. Thomas Hiblish will direct the choir at the meeting, composing the program for the purpose of studying musical programs of high school and college vocal departments. Mr. Hiblish will speak about the choir, its repertoire and about the works of Anton Webern.

The choir will include members of "Cantata 1" in its selection. It will also sing "O Magnum" by Peter M. Davies at Princeton's first chorus from Bach's "Cantata 72" and three short works by Brahms.

"Scherzo" is shouldn't, of course, it still demands the utmost finesse of execution, with sufficient rhythmic pulse in the transients and more careful attention to the individual phrases and note lengths. It is a pleasure to be able to report that the audience was much increased over the season's previous extra concert, and that the "series" of the series" will be continued next year.

CHURCH MUSIC TOPIC
OF Choir College Lecturer
Dr. Austin G. Lovvick, lecturer of music at Christ Church in New York City, will lecture on "Aspects of Church Music Today" at Westminster Choir College Tuesday evening at 8. The event is open to the public and is the fifth in the President's Series at the college being sponsored by the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Church.

A church organist, Dr. Lovvick is an author, lecturer, and composer of church music. Prior to his present position, he served as minister of music at First Methodist Church in Evanston, Ill., and on the faculties of Trinity-Biblical Institute and Queens College, Charlotte, N. C. He has also directed the choir of the Church of Sacred Music, Union Theological Seminary.

EAST BRUNSWICK NIPPED
5-16 by Little Tigers. A victory for East Brunswick, a 1-0 pressed Princeton High School up to the final buzzer before falling to the Little Tigers in a hard-fought match here Tuesday afternoon, 5-4-50. The victory was the 13th in 17 contests for the tournament-bound Blue and White.

Tom Waters' fall-away jump shot put PHS ahead 2-0 and the home team never trailed thereafter. But the Bears proved to be distressingly inaccurate. Three times East Brunswick was to tie it up, the last coming with one minute to go in the third quarter when the visitors pulled even at 39-39.

The turning point arrived when George Pressler, East Brunswick's tallest player who now leads 13 rebounds, made lead both teams in that department, fouled out with six minutes to play. With the departure, John Kowalski and Tom Waters, who combined for 20 rebounds, were able to control the boards for Princeton. As a result, the losers' record dipped to 7-9.

High-scoring for PHS were Kowalski with 16 points and Jimmy Case, 12. In four minutes, Case showed signs of returning to early season form by hitting for 10 points, his first double-figure performance in seven games. Kowalski and Case combined for all 26 Princeton 15 points in the pressure-packed fourth period. Kowalski getting nine points and Case, one. Princeton's other points were garnered by Hank Schmidt and Waters who tallied eight each.

A native of Indiana, Pa., Mr. Stewart prepared for Princeton at Eberhart Academy. Following his graduation from Princeton, he earned a commission in the U.S. Navy, serving throughout the war.

Mr. Stewart returned to Princeton to assume the editorship of the Alumni Weekly and during his years here was active in Township political affairs and in the Princeton chapter of the American Veterans Committee.

Following his graduation from Princeton, he became executive secretary of the National Alumni Council, a position he held at the time of his death.

His wife, Lois, and five children are among his survivors. A memorial service will be held Sunday in Princeton in lieu of flowers, contributions may be made in his name to Exeter or to Princeton.

Theodore O. Eliot, 42, of 111 Brearum Drive, died February 24 in Princeton Hospital. He was a sales executive for Scientific Design.

Born in New York City, Mr. Eliot was a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

THE CHANGING SCENE: Architect's sketch of four-story office building proposed for 22 Chambers Street and expected to be ready in the spring of 1964.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BUILDERS PROCEED

The four-story office building for 22 Chambers Street, rejected last June by the Borough Zoning Board for insufficient parking spaces, is now at the brochure stage. R. Norman Wood of Peop Wandor Associates is agent.

The site is occupied by Conover and Nassau Motor Companies who hope to move to their new structure on Route 206 early in April. According to Mr. Wood, the 22 Chambers Street building will be ready for occupancy by April 1964.

Mather of Princeton.

The service was held at the Maithel Funeral Home, interment was in Ewing Church Cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret S. Bealon, 49, of 14 Spring Street, died February 22 in Princeton Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Bealon had lived here for 25 years. She was the widow of George Beaton. Surviving are two brothers, Clarence Stanton of Princeton and John Stanton of White House Station.

Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church, interment was at the convenience of the family, with arrangements under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Carolina Archer, 83, died February 21 in Helene Fuld Hospital, Trenton, after a brief illness. The widow of Joseph Archer, she had been living with her son, John A. Archer, 25 Wiggins Street.

Mrs. Archer was born in Baltimore and had made her home on West Palm Beach, Fla., for the past 12 years.

Also surviving are a son, Joseph E. Archer of Baltimore, five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Baltimore, interment was in Lorraine Cemetery, Baltimore, with arrangements here by the Kimble Funeral Home.

A. Nelson Campbell, 66, of 111 Main Street, Hightstown, died February 23 in Mercer Hospital, Trenton.

Born in Hightstown, he had lived there all of his life. For the past 3 years he was employed by Deckers Dairy, and was a member of the Hightstown Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth Dobson Campbell; two sons, Ralph N. and Sidney C.; two brothers, Clarence and Howard, all of Hightstown; and several grandchildren.

The service was held in Hightstown, the Rev. Frederick V. Mills officiating. Interment was in Cedar Hills Cemetery.

However, a formal application for a building permit has not been received by the Borough Engineer's Office.

At the hearing on June 21, 1962, before the Zoning Board, attorney Abridge C. Smith 36, representing the group of investors who had obtained an option to buy the Conover-Nassau property, and architect O. Kline Fulmer presented the building plans which were 22 spaces short of the requirements.

The architect has now re-designed the building so that the first floor rear is opened up for the parking of 11 cars, with 12 more cars parked hering-rain-fashion at the rim of the back of the building. The spaces for 37 flank the periphery of the property, for a total of 60 spaces. An L-shaped driveway enters from Chambers Street.

Two offices will front on the street level, and the remainder of the 25,000 square feet of space will be divided between the three upper floors. The building will be air-conditioned and have elevator service.

"I haven't seen the new plans," said Arthur Brokaw, borough engineer, "but it sounds as if they did as we suggested—reduced the amount of parking on the site."

NEW MODEL PROGRESSES
By Pine Knoll Builders. The builders of Pine Knoll at Lawrence are presently completing their newest model on "T" shaped ranch style home.

Ten of the homes are now occupied and an additional 20 are being built. The builders of the project are Edward L. Sands and Ted Dean.

Known as the "Cornell," the model includes three bedrooms, two full baths, a sheltered front porch, an all-electric kitchen with windowed breakfast area and step-down family room with sliding glass doors leading to an outdoor patio.

The ranch model will be inspected daily along with the "Ambers" and "Boulders." The models are located at 2801 Princeton Pike in Lawrence Township.

APPLIANCES INCLUDED
"Village" Homes. Miss New Jersey Home Builder will help introduce the RCA appliances which are part of the "Wellesley" models at the 115-house "Village on the Green" development in Ewing Township.

Ruth Ann Flynn of Haddon Heights, who served as Miss New Jersey Home Builder before winning the state title, will be on hand this Sunday to greet visitors. The model homes are on Upper Ferry Road, off Pennington Avenue.

The appliances in the 4-bedroom Wellesley model include a refrigerator, dishwasher, electric clothes washer and dryer, a built-in wall oven and a counter-top range with hood.

DISTRIBUTION UNDERWAY
By Industrial Firms. The first in a series of motion pictures on the subject of materials handling has been produced and is presently being distributed by Industrial Education Films, Inc.

Entitled "Cutting the Cost of Handling Materials," the film is designed to give managers and technical specialists a sound knowledge of handling principles, according to Frederick W. Bright, president of the firm. The motion picture is available for rental at $35 or for sale at $150.

Norman D. Shikes, administrator of Materials Handling, RCA, was in charge of the technical supervision of the film. The script is based on studies of the information needs in more than 25,000 companies.

SCHOOL PLANNED
By State Banker Group. The New Jersey Bankers Association will hold the first statewide data processing school for bankers Sunday through Friday, March 10-15, at the Nassau Inn.

The purpose of the school will be to provide the statewide banks with information and methods to meet the continued growth in New Jersey's banking industry. The schedule calls for meetings from 9 to 4:30 each day of the conference.
